PRISONER ESCAPES.

Marshfield Man Ties Blankets Together and Gets Out of County Jail.

A prisoner by the name of Jesse Congdon made his escape from the county jail on Monday evening, and up to the present time nothing has been heard from him. He did not leave any address to which his mail was to be forwarded, and as a consequence the officers of the law are having some trouble in locating him. Congdon was serving a sentence of six months in the county jail for having been convicted of beating his wife, he having been brought here from Marshfield. Since being confined in the jail he has been a model prisoner and as a consequence he has been given the run of the corridors to a certain extent, and it was on this account that he was enabled to get away.

Over the room in which the jail cages are located there is a garret, and Congdon managed to get to the garret and pull up a number of blankets with him. Reaching the upper floor he knotted enough of the blankets together so that he had a rope of sufficient length to reach the ground, and making this fast, he slid to liberty.

His escape was discovered about six o'clock when it was time to feed the prisoners, but it was then dark and there was no knowing how long the man had been gone and it was impossible to locate him, altho a thorough search was made about the city where it was thought that a man might go who was trying to get away.

Several other prisoners have made their escape from the county jail before this one, and in every instance it has been a man who was a model prisoner and who had been given the run of the corridor on account of his good behavior. It should prove quite conclusively to the officers of the law that a man who is bad enough to commit a crime that will get him into the county jail, is bad enough to run away if he gets a chance. Criminals are sent to jail to be confined and the sheriff should not take it to heart even if the confinement becomes irksome to them. He is not called upon to make their stay a particularly pleasant one and is foolish to take any chances.

Concerning Eye Glasses.

Dr. W. D. Harvie has turned over to A. P. Hirzy, the east side optician, all of the prescriptions made by him in the fitting of eye-glasses and spectacles, and as a consequence Mr. Hirzy will be able to duplicate any lenses or set of lenses that the doctor has prescribed in the past. This may prove very handy to persons who should happen to lose or break their glasses, as it will enable them to procure a duplicate at a minimum of cost, and be sure that they are getting just what they had before. It is seldom that a person has two eyes alike, and as a consequence if one of the lenses is broken and the pieces are subsequently lost, it may take a careful examination to decide on just what is necessary to replace the defective eye. With these prescriptions, however, it is possible to furnish an exact duplicate without an examination, as the prescriptions are all carefully preserved in book form, and the lenses necessary for each eye is written out by itself.

Persons who have secured glasses from Dr. Harvie should remember that Mr. Hirzy has the prescriptions.

In Circuit Court.

A case tried out before Judge Webb the latter part of last week which was rather out of the ordinary, David M. Giammer of Marshfield brought suit against the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, The American Nat. Bank of Marshfield and Samuel Johnson, an agent for the insurance Co. It seems that Mr. Giammer took out an insurance policy on his life, and supposed that he was buying one kind of a policy, but when he got it he found that it was another kind. He claimed that the facts had been misrepresented to him and sued to get his money back. The case was taken under advisement.

Checking Up Accounts.

A committee of the county board is busy at the court house these days checking up the affairs of the county for the past two years. They expect to finish the work this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Siches will entertain a party of friends this evening in honor of their first wedding anniversary.

Decided on Plans.

The training school committee have held a number of meetings during the past week, during which they have looked over a lot of plans and carefully considered what has been brought before them. The plans that have been received most favorably are those submitted by Wm. Elliott and Son of St. Paul. These architects have been instructed to submit specifications to see if the building can be built for the amount of money appropriated.

Basket Ball.

The second game in the schedule of the Lincoln High school basketball team will be played in the High school gymnasium Friday evening, January 18. The opposing team will be from Stevens Point Normal. The result of the last game, 38 to 17, favor of Grand Rapids, would indicate that the contest next Friday evening will be well worth seeing.

Win Supreme Court Cases.

Last week Goggins & Braxton received word that they had been successful in both the supreme court cases that they had before that body. One was the case of Closson heirs against the John Arpin Lumber Co., and concerned the title of a tract of land near the Green Bay depot. The lower court decided in favor of the Closson heirs, but the supreme court reversed the decision.

The other was the Forster-Waterbury Co. against the F. MacKinnon Co. concerning some detective castings delivered to the MacKinnon company for their metal covered hubs. In this the supreme court directed judgment in favor of the MacKinnon Co. for $928 as well as the costs of the suit.

Going to Colorado.

Dr. and Mrs. P. B. Wallace left on Tuesday for Grand Junction, Col., where they expect to make their home for a time at least. The change is made on account of Mrs. Wallace's health, which has been rather poor here since their return from the west. This is in the same neighborhood in which they spent last winter, and the climate proved quite congenial.

Dr. Wallace's place has been taken here by Dr. Geo. M. McIntyre, of Chicago, who has had several years experience in osteopathic work and has been very successful in his profession.

Will Visit Porto Rico.

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wood expect to leave on the 22nd for New York and from there they will take a steamer to Porto Rico, where they intend to spend the winter provided the weather suits them as well as they expect to do. They expect to visit other places of interest in that locality, and if the plan is feasible they will return by way of the island of Cuba and probably land at some port in Florida.

Information Wanted.

The widow of one Florian Link, a member of Co. D, 27th Wis. Inf., serving during the Civil War, is seeking a pension, and requires information concerning her husband's condition of health during his service. He died in 1879, and had suffered from some disease which resulted in disease of the lungs. Any comrade of the deceased soldier will be conferring a service upon his widow by communicating with J. A. Stephenson, of Menominee, Mich., who is prosecuting her claims.

President—Mrs. John Hamm.
Vice President (west side)—Mrs. Nels Johnson, Mrs. Chas. Dixon, Mrs. John Hollmuller and Mrs. L. M. Nash.
Vice President (east side)—Mrs. P. J. Starr, Mrs. John Werle and Mrs. Dave Lutz.
Treasurer—Mrs. P. McCamley.
Secretary—Mrs. Frank Zoell.

Today the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. N. Reiland on the east side.

Fahl-Rember.

Miss Martha Fahl and Alfred Rember were married on Thursday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fahl, Rev. Maack officiating. Both of the young people are well known in the city, the bride being a most estimable young lady, while the groom is one of the trusted employees of the Consolidated Paper Co. The Tribune unites with their many friends in extending the heartiest of congratulations.

CONVENTION NOTES

Things that Were Brought Out by the Recent Session of the A. S. of E.

There is one matter at least in which the American Society of Equity stands right on, if nothing more. This is the fact that they are against the mail order house of the city. During a conversation with N. C. Crawley, state organizer for the society, during that gentleman's stay in the city, he stated that one of their greatest efforts was going to be directed toward the curtailing of the patronage of these great evils. It seems that the society has come to a realization of the fact that the mail order house is an evil, and Mr. Crawley is of the opinion that after the society is thoroughly organized it will be able to do a great deal to knock out the business, as one of the objects of the association is to do this, and while they may not avert the evil entirely they feel they can do a great deal toward keeping down the profits for these institutions. The farmer who has thought the matter over carefully knows that it is his interest to patronize the home merchant and build up the town that is nearest him. The greatest evil in the society has complaint of at the present time is the fact that they are being robbed by the middle men, and being robbed by the middle men, the more they pay to the middle man to sell their products and the greater chance there is of their being robbed. Also, the more they send their cash outside and stand off the home merchant the more he has to charge to make up for the fact that his accounts are all long time ones with greater loss in consequence. Those who have studied the matter know that the home merchant can give as good prices as the city one, and even better if he only receives the proper encouragement and patronage.

At the last meeting of the society held in this city a committee was appointed to meet with the American Federation of Labor, the convention of which is soon to be held in Chicago, and this committee will confer with a committee from the Federation for the purpose of planning a method of co-operation between the Federation of Labor and the American Society of Equity. The object is to have the members of the labor unions patronize only the agents of the American Society of Equity in the large cities, and thus do away with the man who is handling farm products on his own hook. They are confident that by this method they can force the commission man out of the field as he will have nothing to do. The reason they give for this is the fact that at the present time potatoes are selling in this market at about twenty cents a bushel, while in the cities they are being handled out to the consumer at a price as high as $1.20 per bushel. They claim that it is a case of wholesale robbery, and that if the stock was properly handled the farmer here could receive the sum of forty cents per bushel for his tubers and at the same time they could be delivered to the city consumer for eighty cents a bushel and give everybody concerned a good profit. If their figures are right it would mean double the price for the farmer and a saving to the consumer that would be as great as the original cost of the potatoes. Potatoes are taken as a talking basis because they are largely raised in this vicinity and the farmers have had lots of experience in prices that are below the fence in prices that are below the cost of production. It would seem by this statement that somebody was making a pretty good racket from the grower.

When the delegates first arrived in the city there was some little difficulty experienced in finding lodgings for them all, but the city authorities took hold of the matter and things were soon so shaped that there was no difficulty experienced along this line. The delegates seemed to be unanimous in declaring Grand Rapids a good place for holding a state convention. The railroad facilities are as good here as anywhere in the state, and the distance to be traveled by the delegates is certainly as short as could be found anywhere, on account of the central location.

The evening meetings of the Society were not as largely attended by the citizens of the town as the delegates had hoped to have them. They were held for the purpose of having the merchants of the city attend so that they might get some idea of the objects of the society, but very few of them took advantage of the opportunity. This fact had no bearing, however, on the success of the meetings, and the delegates departed for home well pleased with the outcome of the convention, and felt that they had accomplished all that they had set out to do in this locality. It is expected that there will be several branch organizations formed in this and neighboring counties in the near future.

Another matter that received considerable attention was the subject of telephone communication between farmers. The rural districts are investing more and more in telephone service right along, and as a consequence they are looking for the best and cheapest methods of obtaining the service. Several telephone representatives were present at the evening meetings and gave out the particulars of the service.

their respective methods and the success that they had met with.

While in session in this city the members of the association elected their officers for the ensuing year, which are as follows:
President—Thos. E. Emmerson of Bloomer.
Vice pres.—O. N. Luce, of Menominee.
Sec.—S. D. Kump of Cambridge.
Treasurer—H. Hill of Baraboo.
State Organizer—N. C. Crawley of Baraboo.

The evening's program was varied somewhat on Wednesday night by a wrestling match, and if the farmers had advertised the fact that they were going to have something in this line it is probable that a standing room would have been at a premium. The contestants were a Mr. Lindsay of Dunn county and a Mr. Welch of this city. The Dunn county man was the lighter of the two by a small margin, but he was in better training and the visitor took the first fall in a trifle over the second. Welch took the second in about half a minute of wrestling time, but when it came to the third there was a dispute as to the referee's decision and the match was declared a draw.

Doing a Good Business.

Otto Reimann of the Grand Rapids Foundry Co. reports that their plant has been working over time of late in order to keep up with the work that they have placed every day. They have placed every man at work that they were able to obtain until all the present time they are working something over forty hands, and are still looking for more help. One of the additions to their plant is a large machine used for the grinding of calendar rolls from paper mills. Very few machine shops are fitted with anything of this sort, and as a consequence they are getting work in this line from far and near, keeping their machine going all the time. Everybody will be glad to know that this plant is assuming such proportions and that they are able to keep things moving. They have one of the finest plants of the kind to be found anywhere and they are entitled to a good chunk of the business for the investment they have made.

The inheritance tax law, which took effect in 1902, has already proved its most fruitful source of state revenue. State Railway Comm.

The work of the state railroad commission is reviewed at length, and in connection with the subject the governor recommends that the state railroad companies be placed under the regulation of the state. He severely criticizes the policy of the state of selling new stock bonds of railroad companies to stockholders at par regardless of market value. In this con-

The state board maintained the value of the stock of the state for the purpose of taxation, but such valuation was not adequate to cover the cost of the railway commission arising from the transportation of passengers and freight. The railroad properties must be assessed in accordance with the earnings of the corporation and provide for the expense of operation and repairs and depreciation upon the capital actually invested. It is therefore recommended that the state railway commission be provided with adequate power to determine the value of the railway property and to employ any state or federal aid required to aid

In his message to the governor each department of education shows the state its recommended appropriations, and the governor's department and legislative committee recommendations for specific appropriations are in connection with their space is devoted.

Considerable space is devoted to the department of education and the state in the way of recommending the various departments of education in which some recommendation is made.

The total amount expected for the year ending June 30, 1917, is $1,000,000. The county superintendent of the year ending June 30, 1916, was $800,000. In other words, the increase is $200,000. This shows a of sending these students to a special school. It is true that the school work is not so good as it should be, but the main trouble is that the children are not regular in attending school. It is not necessary to say anything more on this point, but it relates to the general question of the absence of regularity in school attendance. Three-fourths of the children in the city are under the age of 16, and the attendance must depend for the most part on the regularity of attendance in school. The fact that but 68 per cent of the children are strictly regular, that 10 per cent of the population are under the age of 17, and if 10 per cent of the population are under the age of 16, or more for the year as a whole, raises a question for

(From the Times.)
The advisability of changing the Nokona gas plant from a cold process to a hot process has been under consideration by the village board for some time, the price of gasoline having reached a point that is about one of reach, financially speaking. It is probable that a hot process will be substituted if the present plant can be altered and equipped without incurring too great an investment and information on the subject is being obtained in a practical way, a committee consisting of President W. B. Beadle and Trustees R. C. Sobeika, J. H. Shortt and O. Berger may visit the city of Manitowish, Wis., where a hot process plant is in operation. There they use crude oil which is much cheaper than gasoline, the price per gallon being something like eight cents, while gasoline is now up to twenty-one and a half cents and may continue to advance still higher.

Horizontal Meeting.
The annual convention of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society will be held at Madison on Feb. 6, 7, 8 and 9. Good programs have been prepared and it is hoped to make the coming meeting one of the most successful that has ever been held.
The sessions on Tuesday are devoted to business. Beginning with Wednesday morning one-half day is devoted to papers on growing and marketing strawberries, raspberries, grapes etc.
On Wednesday afternoon Prof. Fletcher of Michigan will speak on the cost of production in Fruit Growing; various other apple topics are also listed for this session.
Fruit marketing will occupy all of Wednesday forenoon presented by Managers of Associations in Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri and Illinois. A representative of the commission merchants will also be on hand. This ought to be a lively session.
Principles of Ornamental Planting by Prof. Green of Minnesota, with various problems connected with Plant Breeding by Prof. Sanderson of the State University and O. G. Patton of Iowa complete the day sessions.
On Wednesday evening F. M. Griffiths, State Forester, speaks on Forest Conditions in Wisconsin and on Thursday evening is the Annual Banquet.
Reduced rates have been secured on all roads in the state. Secretary F. Greenfield, Madison, Wisconsin, on behalf of the Society, extends an urgent invitation to attend the sessions.

Carrier's Salary too Small.
"Rural mail carriers all over the state are complaining of the wages that Uncle Sam is paying them, which is about $60 per month," says "The Randolph Advance." "They say that with the prevailing high prices that there is scarcely a living in it. We believe they have good grounds for their complaint. Every rural mail carrier is obliged to keep at least two horses and is forced to the animals stand the service for two years. This means an annual expense of about $150 per year in addition to the cost of buggies and wagons, harness and feed. It is absolutely necessary to dress as warm as possible during the winter months and in addition to the furs and robes many carriers use small stoves in their wagons. Taking it all in all the job is an expensive one for the carrier who must stand the drive of 25 to 28 miles per day over Wisconsin roads in zero weather.
"One of Dodge county's rural mail carriers informed us that last year he realized only $275 for the maintenance of household and the support of his family, which made close pinching. If Uncle Sam can't afford to pay his rural mail carriers at least $1,000 per year, he ought to favor strikes unless there is a good cause, but here is a case where a strike would be justifiable."

Clever Women.
The women who have their own sweet way in all things are generally of the seemingly yielding class. The real strength of their nature is masked by an unassuming good nature that disarms all inclination to do them wrong. They are not only kind and gentle but they are also very clever. They are the women who are the backbone of the home and the world.

Don't Your Troubles.
Train yourself to keep your troubles to yourself. Don't pour them out upon acquaintances or strangers. They don't want to hear of yours, because they have so many of their own. And besides—there is a point to consider—if you insist on telling other people of your troubles and then you lengthen out in a long and tedious way, they will prevent them from telling their troubles.

WORLD'S WHEAT.

Estimates on the Two Great Sources of Bread Supply.
The world's wheat crop of 1905 is estimated by the Hungarian ministry of agriculture at 3,358,000,000 bushels of sixty pounds, against 3,382,000,000 such bushels last year. Beerbohm's Breeding Corn Trade List puts this year's wheat crop at 3,223,000,000 bushels of sixty pounds against 3,150,400,000 such bushels in 1904. Both estimates make the crop of 1905 the larger, the excess in its favor amounting, however, to less than one-fourth of 1 per cent according to the Hungarian estimate, and 2.1 per cent according to the figure of Beerbohm.
The Hungarian estimate for rye is 1,330,000,000 bushels of fifty-six pounds against 1,351,000,000 such bushels last year. The decrease, which exceeds 10 per cent, is attributed chiefly to the large deficiency in the Russian crop of 1905. Unimportant as the cereals cultivated in the United States, it is by no means unimportant as a part of the world's bread supply, nor is it without effect on the price obtainable for the exportable wheat surplus of the United States.
If the wheat and rye crops of the year, as estimated by the Hungarian ministry of agriculture, be taken together and expressed in cents of 100 pounds, this year's estimate for the two great bread grains combined will be found to be about 55 per cent below the estimate for last year.

AMONG CRANBERRY MEN.

EDITED BY J. A. GAYNOR.

Grand Rapids, Wisconsin.

Destructive Worms.

The following paper by Entomologist O. B. Handenberg, was delivered at the Jan. session of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' Association.

Mr. Pitch, Sec., State Cranberry Growers' Association, Cranmore, Wisconsin.

Dear Sir: As I cannot be present at the meeting of the Wisconsin State Cranberry Growers' Association for reasons stated in a recent communication to you, I think it might be well to give you a brief outline of the results of last season's work on the cranberry insect, with such suggestions for treatment as I can confidently give at this time. Most of the work of last summer was, of course, of a preliminary character and more with a view to prepare the way for next season's work than with the purpose of getting definite practical results.

The conditions found in the cranberry marshes of Wisconsin are of such a nature that the work done on the eastern marshes could be of practically no value to me aside from general information as to life history and nature of the damage done, although even in this respect minor differences were found to exist.

I started out with the purpose to ascertain if possible the following data.

1. To study the actual conditions and behavior of the Wisconsin Fruit worm in the field and to see whether or not there was any considerable difference in its method of working, date of appearance, etc. from what has been described by Smith in his bulletin on the "Insects Injurious to Cranberry Culture."

2. To find out in how far the remedial measures advocated by the former could be applied in Wisconsin, and, if not, how our treatment should differ from that given by him.

3. Other means which could be employed to get rid of the Fruit Worm.

4. Any remedial measures which could be taken against other insect pests of the cranberry.

I arrived in Cranmore June the 20th, which I considered sufficiently early to watch the first appearance of the Fruit Worm moth, as they are not supposed to leave their cocoons before the middle of July. However, the next morning, July 1st, the first moth was caught by Mr. Mulder and from that time on a few were noticed but the greater number did not make their appearance until the middle of July. The moths were never plentiful; at least they were occasionally one would be seen up and while walking through the vines and after a jerky flight a few rods it would settle again head downward on the stem.

I have not been able to discover the age of the Cranberry Fruit Worm, though a careful search was made on those plots which had been badly infested the previous season.

The principal damage has been caused the past year by three insects, the Black Headed Vine Worm and the Cranberry Fruit Worm. While the work of the Cranberry Garter and other insects, such as Katydid, has not been much in evidence this year, and they, for the present at least, need not be considered.

For the life history of these insects and the nature of their damage, I refer to Farmers' Bulletin No. 178 of the U. S. Department of Agriculture on "Insects Injurious to Cranberry Culture;" this bulletin can be obtained free upon application to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. and I would advise every grower to get a copy.

The Fruit Worm is not the only worm that eats in the berry and an early coloring berries need not necessarily be attacked by the fruit worm. Any injury which the berries receive has a tendency to make it color earlier than usual, so that a general look over the marsh does not always give an accurate idea of the number of fruit worms or other insects present. A short resume of the characteristics of the damage done by Fruit Worm or Fruit Worm may be useful.

CRANBERRY FRUIT WORM. This attacks the fruit only, the worm entering the fruit generally near the attachment to the stalk and in its earliest stages, the whole is so small as to be hardly visible and the larvae at first enters the seed, later on it eats the pulp of the berry from the inside. The hole of entrance is always circular, and, except in the very latest stages, late in August, the hole is always covered with a silky web. The worm itself is green with a yellowish head and a red stripe on the back toward the hind end of the body.

CRANBERRY FIRE WORM OR VINE WORM. These are two the yellow headed and the black headed worm. The difference indicated by the name. Of these the black headed is the most to be dreaded. At least it does the greatest amount of damage the last season, and it will ruin a large area in a remarkably short time. These fire worms do damage to both fruit and vines, but its work on the fruit can be readily distinguished from that of the fruit worm for it enters the berry at any point and eats its way in by means of an irregular hole with ragged edges. Its work on the vine is apparent by the leaves of an upright being sprung together at the tip, the vines showing the light under side of the leaves. Later on the tips of several uprights come together. The work of this worm should be detected before this happens. Once the damage can be readily detected from the vines, it is too late. The vines should be inspected closely, and as soon as the first sign is noticed which will be generally early in July, the infested region should be flooded, taking care to have the water well above the vines and keeping it there for about

PLAINFIELD BEATEN.

Grand Rapids High Wins First Basketball Game by High Score.

The Plainfield High school basketball team were down to defeat at the hands of the Lincoln High school basketball five by the score of 38 to 7. Last Friday evening the local high school basketball team proved their superiority over the Plainfield High school five by defeating them in the Lincoln gymnasium by the decisive score of 38 to 7. At no time during the game did the visitors lead in the scoring. On the other hand the local five gained a good lead in the early part of the game and continued to pile up scores after score, throwing field baskets at will and completely out playing the visitors in every point of the game.

Although out-weighted and out-clasped, the Plainfield boys put up a good fight, never stopping for an instant but keeping close to their men and doing their best to hold the score down as much as possible. At times they would get the ball and show exceptionally good team work for a team so completely out-clasped. These instances were not many and did not last long for the local boys were nearly always in the right place at the right time to break this team work up. The Plainfield boys did their best and should be given a great deal of credit for their fighting spirit and the gentlemanly way in which they took their defeat.

The game started out slow but continued to gain speed and become more interesting and exciting as the play proceeded. The locals began the scoring by a field basket which seemed to put spirit into their play. They continued their scoring throughout the first half, only allowing the visitors one field basket during the first twenty minutes of play. As it happened these were the only points Plainfield was able to get from the field during the forty minutes of play. The second half was a repetition of the first, the locals having everything their own way.

This was the first game of the season for the locals and since they won by so decisive a score they feel proud of their showing. The report that the large crowd which had assembled to cheer them on to victory, gave them, was also gratifying to them and will urge them on to do their best to keep that spirit.

Their next game will be with the Stevens Point Normal team Friday evening, Jan. 18. As the Normal has a good team and will come over here with the intention of regaining the laurels lost last year to the local five, an exceptionally good game is expected. With the support of another large crowd like the one that assembled to witness the Plainfield game last Friday, the Lincoln team will do their best to send the Stevens Pointers back home with the small end of the score.

William Hawley Smith. The entertainment given by William Hawley Smith at the Methodist church Monday night was largely attended, and the audience was greatly pleased with what they heard. Mr. Smith is an entertainer like one seldom meets and the evening was a most enjoyable one.

First City of Million. Baylun was probably the first city to attain a population of a million. The area of the city was 225 square miles.

Torches do not seem to be of any particular value in catching the millers. Thousands of them are caught that way, but very few of these are injurious. Most of them are grass feeders and feed insects rather than feed on the grain.

Spraying with Paris green or any other arsenical insecticide is a good preventive for the fruit worm, if applied early in the beginning of July. Once the fruit worm has gained a foothold, it is difficult to combat by spraying. For vine worm and spraying is an excellent remedy and its injury can be checked by spraying a small strip in advance of their line of march.

Flooding for the insect pests, though the easiest way of dealing with them, involves the loss of losing the crop through scalding, except in cases where the water is of a sufficiently low temperature, say below 60 degrees. The submergence, for the fruit worm at least, should continue for forty-eight hours.

The detailed report of last year's work will soon be out and copies will be sent to those interested upon application.

With best wishes for a successful cranberry crop this year, I am, Yours very truly, O. B. Handenberg.

THE UPRIGHT PIANO. How It May Be Placed to Advantage in a Small Room.

Even the upright piano does not always solve the problem of how a small room can be made to contain a musical instrument. There is an arrangement that often works to great advantage in cramped quarters: If the door opens into the room, thus making up useful space, place the instrument with one end at the side of the door, so that the door will open against the piano back. An iron brace can be placed so that the door cannot fly back to hit the piano. Then hang a curtain for a partition to conceal the back of the piano. The same plan can be used when the door opens against the wall.

Stockholders' Meeting.

The stockholders of the First National Bank held their annual meeting at the bank building on Wednesday evening last. The articles of the company were so amended as to provide for seven directors in the future instead of five as has been the case in the past, the two new directors being Mr. M. Pense, present cashier of the bank, and E. W. Ellis of the Stange-Ellis company, who is well known to our citizens. The directors as selected are Geo. W. Mead, Dr. Frank Ponsiaville, W. J. Conway, Edward Lynch, L. P. Witter, E. W. Ellis and E. M. Pense.

The officers elected by the directors subsequently were Geo. W. Mead, president; Edward Lynch, vice president; Mr. M. Pense, cashier and A. G. Miller, assistant cashier. The condition of the institution was never better than at the present time, and the stockholders were well pleased with the past year's business.

Annual Telephone Meeting. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wood County Telephone company was held at the city hall on Tuesday evening, but owing to the fact that there was not a majority of the stock represented the meeting was adjourned until Tuesday evening, Feb. 12th, on which occasion it is expected that there will be a large attendance.

A matter that was brought up during the meeting was the question of making connections with the Wisconsin Telephone Co. This company has had a proposition before the Wood Co. Telephone Co. for some time past in which they propose to connect with the local company and give long distance connections. As the contract has been rather one-sided, up to date the local company has not accepted it. A committee was appointed at last night's meeting to confer with representatives of the Wisconsin company to see what they had to offer along this line and to report at the meeting called in February.

There being no further business to transact the meeting was adjourned.

A Land Sale. Ben Hansen and Mike Sierck last week purchased a fine one-half acre tract of land on the west side of the St. Paul tracks and if there is demand for it the property will probably be divided up and sold in lots later on.
